We will discuss some questions related to rational approximation of analytic functions, including Padè approximation, meromorphic approximation of Markov functions, Blaschke products associated with n-widths. We also present results of rational approximation of analytic functions on discrete sets of the complex plane.